

Personal, Social, Moral and Health Education (PSMHE) and Citizenship Policy

1 Aims and objectives

- 1.1 Personal, social, moral, health education (PSMHE) and citizenship enables children to become healthy, independent and responsible members of society. We encourage our pupils to play a positive role in contributing to the life of the school and the wider community. In so doing we help develop their sense of self worth. We teach them how society is organised and governed. We ensure that they experience the process of democracy in school through the school council. We teach them about rights and responsibilities. They learn to appreciate what it means to be a positive member of a diverse multicultural society.
- 1.2 The aims of personal, social and health education and citizenship are to enable the children to:
- know and understand what constitutes a healthy lifestyle;
 - be aware of safety issues;
 - understand what makes for good relationships with others;
 - have respect for others;
 - be independent and responsible members of the school community;
 - be positive and active members of a democratic society;
 - develop self-confidence and self-esteem, and make informed choices regarding personal and social issues;
 - develop good relationships with other members of the school and the wider community.

2 Teaching and learning style

- 2.1 We use a range of teaching and learning styles. We place an emphasis on active learning by including the children in discussions, investigations and problem-solving activities. We encourage the children to take part in a range of practical activities that promote active citizenship, e.g. charity fundraising, the planning of school special events such as Business Challenge week, an assembly or open evening, or involvement in an activity to help other individuals or groups less fortunate than themselves. We organise classes in such a way that pupils are able to participate in discussion to resolve conflicts or set agreed classroom rules of behaviour. We offer children the opportunity to hear visiting speakers, such as health workers, police, and representatives from the local church (St. Johns), whom we invite into the school to talk about their role in creating a positive and supportive local community.

3 PSMHE and citizenship curriculum planning

- 3.1 We teach PSMHE and citizenship in a variety of ways. In some instances, e.g. drugs education, we teach PSMHE and citizenship as a discrete subject.
- 3.2 Some of the time we introduce PSMHE and citizenship through other subjects, e.g. when teaching about local environmental issues in geography, we offer pupils the opportunity to explore who is responsible for the maintenance and upkeep of local parks and cycle paths. As there is a large overlap between the programme of study for religious education and the aims of PSMHE and citizenship, we teach a considerable amount of the PSMHE and citizenship through our religious education lessons and discreet citizenship lessons. (From January 2002 we will be trialling the LCP Citizen scheme of work.)

- 3.3 We also develop PSMHE and citizenship through activities and whole-school events; e.g. the school council representatives from each class (except reception) meet monthly to discuss school matters. We offer a residential visit to Kingswood Staffordshire in Key Stage 2, where there is a particular focus on developing pupils' self esteem and giving them opportunities to develop leadership and co-operative skills.

4 Foundation Stage

- 4.1 We teach PSMHE and citizenship in reception classes as an integral part of the topic work covered during the year. As the reception class is part of the Foundation Stage of the National Curriculum, we relate the PSMHE and citizenship aspects of the children's work to the objectives set out in the Early Learning Goals (ELGs). Our teaching in PSMHE and citizenship matches the aim of developing a child's personal, emotional and social development as set out in the ELGs. We also support citizenship education in reception classes when we teach 'how to develop a child's knowledge and understanding of the world'.

5 Teaching PSMHE and citizenship to children with special needs

- 5.1 We teach PSMHE and citizenship to all children, regardless of their ability. Our teachers provide learning opportunities matched to the individual needs of children with learning difficulties. When teaching PSMHE and citizenship we take into account the targets set for the children in their Individual Education Plans (IEPs).

6 Assessment and recording

- 6.1 Teachers assess the children's work in PSMHE and citizenship by making informal judgements as they observe them during lessons. We have clear expectations of what the pupils will know, understand and be able to do at the end of each key stage.
- 6.2 Teachers record the achievements of pupils in PSMHE and citizenship within their planning and marked work. We report these achievements to parents each year. We record their contribution to the life of the school and community within newsletters, celebration board and display.

7 Resources

- 7.1 We keep resources for PSMHE and citizenship within classrooms. We have additional resources in the library. Our PSMHE and citizenship subject leader holds a selection of reference materials for teaching sensitive issues.

8 Monitoring and review

- 8.1 The PSMHE and citizenship subject leader (HT) is responsible for monitoring the standards of children's work and the quality of teaching. The subject leader

Chad Vale Personal, Social and Health Education (PSMHE) and Citizenship Policy supports colleagues in the teaching of PSMHE and citizenship, by giving them information about current developments in the subject and by providing a strategic lead and direction for the subject in the school. The subject leader is also responsible for giving the headteacher an annual summary report, evaluating strengths and weaknesses in the subject and indicating areas for further improvement. We allocate special time for our subject leader to enable him/her to fulfil this role by reviewing samples of children's work and visiting classes to observe teaching in the subject.

Note

This PSMHE and citizenship policy should be read in conjunction with the Health, Safety and Welfare Policy.
